My 2 month old loves this book! Definitely recommend for young babies!

We picked up a few different high-contrast board books for our kids when they were first born. From Day 1, they loved staring at the images, and could do so for hours on end! I picked this one up for an Easter gift, and it was equally engaging for their adjusting eyes. I knocked off one star because it's tiny! I wouldn't buy it again - I'd go with Hello, Bugs! and/or Hello, Animals! instead.

This has good patterns, but requires you to hold and adjust the book for the little one to see them (because of its book form). It can be tiring for the mommy (says the mommy) to constantly hold the book, but this is a minor thing.

I have several different black-and-white books for my newborn, and it's amazing how intensely he focuses on them when we stand them up in his line of sight. You'd think something exciting was happening on the pages, but I guess his new and ever-developing brain is just really able to focus on the contrasted colors. I would highly recommend getting some b/w books for your baby as early as day one.

My son really doesn't like this book. I think the drawings are too much, so he either gets frustrated or totally ignores it. He loves the Look Look book.

This is a great book to help introduce "reading" time to your little baby. Even though there are no words the baby will be engaged in the images and page turning which will instill in them a reading mentality

This book is amazing. My 3 month old cannot stop talking and smiling, when he sees this book. He sees something that I cannot. He can spend 15-30 mins staring at the pages in this book.

Newborn infants can only process contrast in the first weeks of life. This book is the perfect stimulus for them and captivated my son for his first month of life.
