First did a blind test(they had me take an initial test to see where I was) and had scored a 68. This is out of 99.They scheduled me to head to MEPS 3-4 weeks later and figured out what the MOS I wanted, required for scoring so I studied those courses.Took the test and called up my recruiter to find out what my score was and ended up getting an 84.I tried studying at least a chapter a night, but there were a few times I was too tired from work, but also took my book with me to read during lunch break for about 40 minutes.The score I needed to get, which was a combined total between the subjects was a 100 out of 150. I got 123.The book definitely helps in covering everything, but if you know your MOS score goal, try to focus on those subjects.I would’ve undoubtedly gotten a higher score if I’d have read the others, as skipped what I considered not high in my priority.For cleaner number recognition:Before reading - 68After reading - 84

The book is very good at breaking down condensed information and explaining it. The book also gives great test taking tips. Overall it is an excellent book.

Good test practice - Keep in mind that it does come with flashcards

Great book I've already recommended to others also. It comes with a lot of knowledge and things to help you really succeed, such as test and note cards.

Exactly what I expected and this is the best study guide out there!

Looks like a lot of work but it goes by quick. Most sections were helpful although I really only wanted it to study for my sections. Electronics and mechanics were very helpful however I found the auto section wasn't very accurate to what came up on the asvab. I get that it's meant to give you general info but with the other sections hitting the nail on the head I was surprised automotive was a bust. Overall I only took the test once and scored an 91 with the book I'm sure helping me score a 97 in the electronics category. Flash cards were also a big help.

Do the practice tests, time yourself, study each section and you'll get a great score on the asvab

Let me explain, first off, when I did my screening test for the navy, I got 74. So I looked through the book AND IT HAD SO MUCH EXCESS KNOWLEDGE THAT YOU DIDNT REALLY NEED ON THE TEST. So I never studied with the book and only used the practice tests. I got an 89 though
