I have found that some answers are wrong. Which did spoil a quiz I conducted. One question was, Which is the third longest river in the world? The answer given was Mississippi, which is wrong.

It's an ok book, but there are too many questions about phobias (odontophobia, noctiphobia, nyctophobia, etc.), and it's loaded with questions about the collective name for groups of animals. There are many mistakes (Sicily is the capital of which country? Answer: Palermo). This book is priced right $5.00.

Fun questions all over the knowledge bases and great for family dinners and school exercises!

I was able to use quite a few of the questions in the book, so I was happy with it. (Some questions were too easy for high school students, though.)

There's lots of information here but the format is a little tough to read. There are several typos and formatting issues that made me twinge but overall, it's good fodder for trivia buffs.

Decent trivia book that is not good enough to deserve 5 stars

Good mix of questions but not organized by subject. 100 quizzes of 15 questions each. The 15 answers follow each quiz.

Be prepared for phobias and heavy dose of Greek Mythology, as the formats get a little repetitive, but this trivia book has been fun for our family on long car trips.
