Peter H. Reynolds is the New York Times best-selling illustrator of the Judy Moody and Stink series written by Megan McDonald. He is also the creator of several picture books for children, including The North Star and So Few of Me. The president and creative director of FableVision, Peter H. Reynolds was born in Canada and now lives in Dedham, Massachusetts.

Sweet and fun!

My little artist loves these books and they teach good lessons about how much fun art is when it's NOT perfect. Our favorite in the series is "Ish," but "The Dot" and "Sky Color" also provide valuable messages about creativity and not giving up. If you like these, I also recommend "Beautiful Oops!" by Barney Saltzberg.

Great reminder that creativity doesn't come in cookie cutter forms and that children should explore their creativity rather than finishing ready made products! Embrace the blank paper and dare to color outside the lines of coloring pages...

I bought these, together with Beautiful Oops, for my 4-year old artist who can be a bit of a perfectionist sometimes. He & his 5-year old brother both LOVE the books. They have helped give him (and me) some language for when he is frustrated with his art or can't decide what to draw. The illustrations are beautiful and the message is lovely. Highly recommend!

These are in my top 10 list of children's books. My students want me to read them over and over! So many activities to do based on them too!

I love the lessons learned in each book about expressing yourself freely and with confidence. The illustrations are beautiful, too. Note: These books are a trilogy in a more abstract sense. They're connected by theme and subtly feature the same characters.

Perfect feel-good stories that will lift the spirits of people young and old. The art projects that can accompany these stories are endless. Peter H. Reynolds is phenomenal.

LOVE this set. Highly recommend it in any classroom!
