Ming-Ju Sun has worked in fashion advertising as an illustrator, art director, and photographer. Her original illustrations for Garfinckel's department store, along with her original drawings from Dover's Fashions of the First Ladies Coloring Book, are archived at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History.

I love Ming-Ju Sun's fashion coloring books from Creative Haven and from Dover. I am really glad to see a more modern fashion book as most of my other ones are from much older periods. I am reminded of playing Barbie and Ken with my older sisters when I look at these fashions. While it was much later than the 1950's we still had fashions from that period in our toy boxes. I am also reminded quite a bit of watching "Happy Days". I know that I will have a lot of fun both coloring them and thinking back to my memories. It's funny how stylish and chic the styles look even today. There are 31 designs in this coloring book which are printed on bright white perforated paper that is a fairly heavy stock. The designs are printed on one side of the page only. The binding is glued but that isn't an issue with Creative Haven because of the great perforated pages. All of the designs stop well before the bound edge. The designs all have "frames" around them which creates a natural stopping point for my coloring. I really appreciate this care in design as it saves me ink and gives my finished project a more polished look. All of my gel pens and markers bleed through on Creative Haven books to varying degrees (some wick right through while others leave a "shadow" of color on the backside. Not a problem as the back of each page is blank so no other design will be ruined. My preference is to use chipboard but I can use heavyweight paper or card stock below the page I am working on (if I am keeping it in the book) or under the page if I remove it from the book.

I love this coloring book...so many wonderful pages of fashions of the 50s...I am attaching a couple of pictures that I have colored...I know you will love this book also! The pictures are on perforated pages with only picture per page.

Love this book for several reasons. I grew up in the 50's so can relate to and love the pictures. The pictures are ones that can be completed quickly. Some of my books take a week to complete a picture. This book is great when I need quick and satisfying stress relief! Other great and fun books by this company are Enchanted Fairies and Steampunk

I am having fun using my gel pens and colored pencils on this. Nothing has seeped through, but if you are going to use markers of any type, I would put something between the pages so it doesn't seep through. The pages are thicker than what I thought, so that is good.

Great fun. Much like the coloring books you had as a child. The pages are perforated so lay flat for coloring. Both men and women to color. Backgrounds are not too detailed, plants or flowers. At least one with windows. Some have none at all. Many of the clothes are patterned. Really enjoying the hairstyles, clothes and fashions. Pages are double sided which has not been a problem with my prismacolor pencils. Also nice white paper. Easy, relaxing and perfect when you don't have the time or desire to overwhelming detail.

Really enjoying this book, but this is not 50's fashion as I remember it. And none of the men has a crewcut - nearly universal after the war. One who might have ducktails. Not a cardigan or sweater to be seen. Shoes were pretty authentic, but only one pair saddle shoes & no real bobby sox. Only one pair of glasses on a man & 2 pair sunglasses also on men. Not one poodle skirt. No hoop skirts. Figures mannequin-like, but remind me of making my own paper dolls & creating clothes for them in 50's. Despite caveats, have ordered 3 other books by Sun. Just was there & most of clothes, except suits, not authentic. I like the way she draws & enjoy playing with color. It is fun to color though. My other books don't have people in them & , though these are mannequin-like, I don't really care. Reminds me of making my own paper dolls in the 50's & creating clothes for them. I've ordered a nStill this book is fun to color.

This was without a doubt the best book to color. Living during the 50's helped so much in deciding how to color each picture. I wish there were more books like this or editions of this book. I bought the book before I saw the movie "Brooklyn" and once I saw the movie, I just couldn't wait to start coloring. I love the way the artist drew the faces because I was actually able to color the eyes, put on eye shadow and even contour the cheeks. Ming-Ju Sun is a wonderful artist and creates pictures exactly like I love to color, especially this book. If you lived through the 50's you'll have a blast coloring this. It brought back memories for me and I just felt like it put me back in time. I also loved the flowers in the pics and, of course, I have to add that I love the pics that are already colored or partially colored so you can get some ideas on different ways to color the picture Really loved seeing the 50 fashions again.

Not as fun as I thought it would be. Too many similar pages. I would have preferred some more pictures of people doing things rather than just mannequins.
