Release Of Magic: The Revelations Of Oriceran (The Leira Chronicles Book 2)

Synopsis

There are some on our planet who believe you can't handle the truth, so the truth has been hidden for millennia. The only problem is the truth is coming back. | Early. Leira Berens had her case blow up in her face. Literally. Now, the necklace is still in play, she has no leads and it's time she got in touch with her feelings. She'd rather wrestle an alligator than deal with her feelings. Fortunately, there's still road trips, Cheetos, and Dr. Pepper. And Correk is willing to help... there's also Leira's sidekick troll - YTT - who is learning a few new words, and she's introduced to an entire magical community. Her new found powers hint at something more about her DNA and the Feds have noticed. But in the end, family comes first and Leira has a shot to get her mom out of the psych hospital and she is going to take it. The adventure is just beginning. | Welcome to The Revelations of Oriceran. Because some believe you can't handle the truth.

Customer Reviews

I am a huge Military SciFi fanatic. Was turned on to Bethany Anne and loved her. So I started to read a little Fantasy and Magic. When the AGES started coming out I bought them and read everyone and they were ok, just not my "cup of tea" . When Anderle started talking about another Series after Bethany Anne but he wanted to do a magic thing I shook my head. I knew that the books would be ok,because Anderle doesn't do junk. So....I read #0 and it was ok, I gave it a 4, and decided to do one more...so #1...it was better but still gave it a 4....thought to myself, ok, because of Bethany Anne..I will do one more... This one struck a cord...not sure why. I know that the Bar and her friends/family are a great addition. The mother hit me hard as I put myself in Laura's place. Put it all together and you got my 5 Stars as well as "Where 's the next one", and when is the troll going to get into the act? Sorry it took me so long...I have been told I am a little slow in accepting change.Ms. Carr - Thanks for the read and as you have said in different words..."arriving is fun and wonderful...but it is the journey that got you there and crafted the words."

This series has really gotten my interest. To be truthful, Michael Anderle knows how to pick the right authors as well as his great team of editors because bad editing really messes with the flow of the story. Beyond the technicalities, the stories are really interesting such as this one with a part of it being the introducing of magic to earth. Well...have you noticed a trend in our world of more New sheets, more alien stories, more 'proof' of "more things under heaven and earth, Horatio, then are dreamt of in our philosophy". I'm just saying.Now, see, that's the kind of picture I'd but a mug or pillow of-yumfuck sitting in the middle of the bowl eating is what I would definitely go for.Here I was, toward the end of the book and jumped here to write the following: And oh sure, you pronounce Correck but not Oriceran. Is it Or ih sehr ann, Or ih sehr ahn, or Or eh Kehr an, etc? Help a girl out here. But here is where reading the funny and interesting 'authors notes come in. Michael Anderle spelled it out and just the way I've been pronouncing it in my head. Yay me.

Another fun story, Martha! Glad Yumfuck is coming into his own and evolving (even though we have only seen glimpses of his Protector mode). Liera is becoming more multi-dimensional and growing as a person in these stories. Her tribes are increasing, as is her magic. Correck is the perfect mentor/sidekick; what he does at the end of this book shows him to be a little more than one standing back and letting Liera do her thing. Lots of side characters have shown up and it will be interesting to see if they become more integral to the story or just passing through. And here's hoping we will find out who Liera's father is or was, some time in the near future! Looking to see where this goes next! Kudos to you, Martha Carr! (Oh, and that other guy who seems to change almost every author's lives he touches! He must be a Prophet! Or a troll. Hmmm....)

This author is truly amazing. She has created characters and a world where you can truly go to escape the reality of everyday life and enjoy things like a little troll who steals a box full of donuts in front of an entire donut shop and an entire world of magic surrounding humans, most of whom are none the wiser. The main character becomes deeper to me with each book I read in this series and I loved to see her assimilating to understanding emotions and paving her own way with magic, making anything possible. I can't wait to see what's to come for her in the next book and how she will handle the changes this book created. I'm waiting with baited breath for the next release. Good job on creating such amazing characters and such a vivid universe.

One of the things I love most about sci/fi is being able to see the world created before me. Sometimes it's difficult, the author doesn't end up really connecting to a created reality or has a hard time transcribing what's in their head to paper. This book doesn't have those problems, the world is our reality... just brighter and with glitter. Normally I avoid glitter at all cost, but here it cracks me up. Thanks for the quick ride to Austin looking forward to my next road trip. Cheers

Leira has started a journey to the next level, she has become more than a character in a book and many of her readers have become emotionally invested in her story. Well done Martha Carr, you have gotten us involved.....now here it comes---When is the next book coming out??? Tomorrow is not soon enough!!!!!!If you are browsing through the reviews trying to decide whether to buy this book, Don't! Get book 0, read it, grab book 1, read that and by then you won't have any more questions..... Except how to get books 2 and 3,4, or however many may be available by then. The rest of us will be waiting on the next book too. You have been warned.
