About the only thing you can have people agree on concerning Washington DC is that museums are plentiful and admission is free. Washington DC is the museum showplace of America offering a diverse range of art collections to satisfy the interests of all types of visitors. The Smithsonian, affectionately referred to as America's Attic, alone has 16 museums. The ARTWISE[®] Washington DC Museum Map helps to clarify and organize your efforts to visit and absorb as much art and culture as your time allows. A brief listing of museums featured in the index of ARTWISE[®] Washington DC Map is:
The National Gallery of Art, created with a major donation from Andrew Mellon, contains paintings and sculpture from the Mellon collection and other large private art collections. You'll find Jackson Pollack's famous drip painting Lavendar Mist here. The International Spy Museum looks at the history and methods of espionage over the years. Exhibits include gadgets used in spying, the people involved including Mata Hari and Julia Child, and a look at the spy versus spy conflict from the cold war. A visit here will confirm that there's a lot more to being a secret agent than cool cars and a shaken martini. The circular Hirshhorn Museum & Sculpture Garden is known for its important contemporary art collection including the works of Matisse, Picasso, Warhol, Oldenburg, Kiefer and Rodin. The Hirshhorn has one of the world's major collections of modern sculpture. The National Museum of American Art contains over 37,000 paintings, sculpture, graphics and photography in a historic building shared with the National Portrait Gallery and the Archives of American Art. The Arthur M Sackler Gallery has permanent and changing exhibitions of Asian art. The Sackler is renowned for its Chinese bronzes and jades. The Sackler connects with the Freer Gallery of Art which houses 19th and 20th century American art, as well as Asian art. The National Air & Space Museum is perhaps the most famous and most popular of the Smithsonian Museums. Displays include artifacts of aviation and space exploration. See Lindbergh's Spirit of St Louis and John Glenn's Mercury Spacecraft. The Corcoran Gallery is the largest nonfederal museum in Washington DC. Its popularity stems from its stellar list of artists represented like Renoir, de Kooning, Picasso, Calder, Whistler, and Sargent. In addition to seeing art, any trip to the Mid-Atlantic and Washington DC should include a visit to the great memorials and monuments on the National Mall. The US Capitol and Lincoln Memorial are at either end of the Mall; in between them are the great memorials to Washington and Jefferson. They are impressive architecturally and laid out in a way to inspire pride and patriotism. The ARTWISE[®] Washington DC Museum Map is a detailed map of central Washington DC culturally speaking. The index lists and describes museums and other cultural sites with the address, map reference, hours, telephone, admission charge information and a brief description of the highlights of that location. A separate inset map of the Washington DC metro system is included to facilitate your travels. Of course, the map will identify the museums along the Washington Mall which are within easy walking distance to one another.

'Don't leave home without STREETWISE.' --The New York Times'STREETWISE is an absolute travel essential.' --Travel + Leisure Magazine'In a strange city, your sense of direction is only as good as the map in your hands. The best maps to carry are published by STREETWISE.' --Chicago Daily Herald

STREETWISE® is the first map to be designed with modern graphics and is the originator of the laminated, accordion-fold map format. We've set the standard that every map company has imitated but never duplicated. Our mission is to make you feel comfortable, to make you feel safe in a place where you've never been before and to enable you to experience a familiar place more fully. The company was founded in 1984 by Michael Brown, who had been in international publishing for many years, setting up subsidiaries for textbook publishers. In the 1970s, Brown traveled extensively throughout Africa, India, the Middle East and Southeast Asia. Brown would take a large paper map, cut out the city center, folded it up and slip it into his pocket, thus preventing him from looking like a tourist in areas where discretion is the better part of travel. This was his tool for surviving. After many years on the road, Brown settled back in New York and decided to start his own business, based on the adaptations he had made to maps in his travels. His goal was to give someone the ability to navigate easily in unfamiliar terrain. He started with a new map format: the accordion fold. Such a simple idea, but at the time it was revolutionary. No more struggling to fold an awkward, oversized paper map. This new format would enable the user to blend in like a native, instead of stick out like a tourist. Brown then added lamination to ensure that the map would be a lasting tool. More important than the format was the design of the map itself. It had to be a map that not only succeeded above and beyond any map he had used, but was esthetically appealing as well. The look of it had to be as striking as the functionality. Color was introduced in a way that was never seen before in a map - vivid purple for water, soothing gray for the background of street grids, gold to highlight elements of the map. Clarity, conciseness and convenience in a very stylish package. Building the business was a 24 hour job. Brown sold the maps during the day, zipping around Manhattan making deliveries on his Harley Davidson. At night he packed the orders and did the design work. More titles were added, each title requiring months of research and design. Today, STREETWISE[®] produces over 130 titles for major destinations, regions and countries throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, Australia, Europe, the United Kingdom and Asia. We have grown from the back of a motorcycle to selling millions of maps around the world. Yet each title is still painstakingly researched and updated. STREETWISE[®] is one of the only, if not THE only map company that conducts research by walking or driving an area to ensure accuracy. After all, what good is the map if what you hold in your hands doesn't match what you see on the street sign? This lengthy fact checking results in superior accuracy; in effect, we've done the work, now you have the adventure. In the end, it's not about the map, it's about getting out and finding your own authentic experience wherever you go. It's about being in a city or a region and discovering things that you never thought you would find. You can do this if you have confidence and you have confidence if you have a great map. STREETWISE[®] is the great map that you need.

Wow, the print on this thing is so tiny you'd need magnifying glasses! Pretty much a waste of money, sad to say. Nice idea.

Great guide that made our trip a lot easier.

I bought this map for my trip recently to Washington D.C. I wanted to visit some of the Museums. This map is great. It shows the location of many of the museums and historical sites---thus making navigation much easier. All the areas around the Smithsonian...Arlington Cemetery, Washington Mounument and the areas downtown around the near by hotels are shown...as are Metro Stops. I do highly recommend this map to all travelers to the sites in D.C.

This is a very handy laminated pocket guide to museums and attractions in DC. We used it for reference when presenting options to friends from out of town - it gives an overview of things to do plus how far apart they are from each other and from the Metro. I hope they continue to update this map.

Of all the maps/guides we used on a recent trip to Washington D.C., this was our go-to. We will look for similar guides for other cities. Well worth the price.

Sturdy laminated street map. Legible. I have used many maps in this series and have found them to be helpful and outlast the trips.

easy to follow and great to have. even tween girls used it on our trip. sturdy and folds easily!
