Customer Reviews

Many of the selections follow a thin plotline, allowing actors to get a better feel for the teens. -- School Library Journal, June 2005
The latest in a series that deals with situations, emotions and characters representative of modern adolescence. -- Stage Directions Magazine, March 2005

Look no further! Here's the book for you, thirteen- to fifteen-year-old boys dealing with the things that interest and concern you. This is a goof-proof way to find one- to two-minute monologues that are right for you. Follow several very different characters through various scenarios (friends, family, school, strangers, siblings, and more) with both dramatic and hilarious results. Meet characters like J Mackett, an athlete and a natural at everything, except when he's in the lingerie department with his Mom and runs into a girl from school. Or Lash Parker who's had to take care of himself most of his life--it's no wonder that he's a suspicious character who's ready for a fight. All the characters have wildly diverse personalities from one another and their own unique perspective on the world. You can choose from one that's most like you, or challenge yourself, and pick one that is completely different from you. KRISTEN DABROWSKI is an actress, writer, acting teacher, and director residing in New York City. She received her MFA in performance from the Oxford School of Drama in Oxford, England and has performed all across the U.S. and England. She is the author of the Teens Speak Series, The Ultimate Audition Book for Teens Volume III, The Ultimate Monologue Series for Middle School Actors Volume I, and Twenty 10-Minute Plays for Teens Volume I.

It's rare to find a book of monologues that are really good!!
